

Times Change

In the printing business, times are always changing. There are improved production methods, exciting developments in press technology, new inks and paper selections and unbelievable computer advances. These kinds of changes are good for us and our customers.

There is one thing, however, that will never change - our commitment to customer service and quality. We treat you with respect and appreciate your business. We pay attention to details and make your deadlines our deadlines. We strive to produce a flawless product, but take responsibility should anything go wrong. Some things should change. Some things shouldn't. We know the difference!

HOT OFF THE PRESS

July

2008

Vacation is a system whereby people who are merely tired become exhausted.

Appreciation makes people feel more important than almost anything else you can give them.

Enthusiasm is contagious - and so is the lack of it.

Change is what a person wants on a vacation - and a lot of currency, too.

Words to Live By

They who try to do something and fail are infinitely better than those who try to do nothing and succeed.

- Lloyd Jones

It's real nice for children to have pets - until the pets start having children.

Our forefathers founded an enduring republic that has had to endure a lot more than they thought it would have to endure.

Don't you long for the good old days when "Uncle Sam" lived within his income and without most of yours?

Man blames most accidents on fate - but feels a more personal responsibility when he makes a hole-in-one on the golf course.

In some families it would be best if the children were properly spaced - about one hundred yards apart.

Probably nothing in the worlds arouses more false hopes than the first six hours on a diet.

There is probably no better way to loaf, without attracting a lot of criticism and unfavorable attention, than to go fishing.

Prosperity is something businessmen create for politicians to take the credit for.

Few people ever get dizzy from doing too many good turns.

Why is it that we will travel thousands of miles to get away from people - just so we can send cards saying, "Wish you were here."?

The greatest happiness of life is the conviction that we are loved for ourselves, or rather loved in spite of ourselves. - Victor Hugo

Monthly Parchment

Two Ways to Handle STRESS

1. Don't sweat the small stuff.
2. Remember, it's all small stuff.

Pictured above is a copy of this month's parchment we print for our friends. It is 8.5x11 and free for you to pick up during your next visit.

Patience is the ability to remain silent and hungry while everybody else in the restaurant gets served.

He who has the habit of smiling at the cash register instead of the customer won't be smiling long.

Education is what you get from reading the small print on a contract - experience is what you get from not reading it.

One can always tell a truly great man by the fact that at least ten thousand persons went to school with him in the small town where he grew up.

The advantage of a large family is that at least one of the children may not turn out like the others.

The last time you failed, did you stop trying because you failed - or did you fail because you stopped trying?

Too many people run out of ideas long before they run out of words.

What is defeat? Nothing but education, nothing but the first step to something better. - Wendell Phillips

If exercise is so good for us, why do so many athletes retire at thirty-five?

Don't envy anybody. Every person has something no other person has. Develop that one thing and make it outstanding.
