HOT OFF THE PRESS

September 2008

If people talked only about what they know, the silence would be unbearable.

Small deeds done are better than great deeds planned.

Opportunity has the uncanny habit of favoring those who have paid the price of years of preparation.

A sense of humor reduces people and problems to their proper proportions.

Words to Live By

Success is a journey, not a destiny.
It should be enjoyed through the entire trip, not endured until the final reward.

Example is not the main thing in influencing others. It is the only thing.

Don't drive as if you owned the road - drive as if you owned the car.

Man is that foolish creature who tries to get even with his enemies and ahead of his friends.

We make our future by the best use of the present.

Table manners must have been invented by people who were never hungry.

School days can be the happiest days of your life - once your kids are old enough to attend.

No matter what you do, someone always knew you would.

People are funny. They spend money they don't have to buy things they don't need to impress people they don't like.

Reputation is something you live up to in your youth and to live down in your old age.

Worry can't change the past, but it can ruin the present.

Be thankful if your job is a little harder than you like. A razor can't be sharpened on a piece of velvet.

A smart person doesn't tell everything he knows, but he knows everything he tells.

What makes eating your words so difficult is swallowing your pride at the same time.

Problems shouldn't be faced; they should be attacked.

An educated person is one who has finally discovered that there are some questions to which nobody has the answers.

Most people do only what they are required to do, but successful people do a little more.

Success is the result of backbone, not wishbone.

Tact is the rare talent for not quite telling the truth.

The best time to do something worthwhile is between yesterday and tomorrow.

A veteran congressman told a freshman colleague, "In Washington, if you're not confused, you haven't heard all the facts."

The head never begins to swell until the mind stops growing.

Many people look forward to the new year for a new start on old habits.

Intelligence is like a river - the deeper it is, the less noise it makes.
