HOT OFF THE PRESS

April

2009

Nature must have a sense of humor to let spring fever and spring cleaning come at the same time.

In the orchard of opportunity, it is better to pick the fruit than to wait for it to fall.

We should hold elections every year because there never seems to be tax increases in an election year.

No man is better than his principles.

Words to Live By

Ordinary people think merely how they shall spend their time, a man of any intellect tries to use it.

Laws are man's guidelines, but, unfortunately, too many try to read between them.

A tax-dodger is a man who does not love his country less, but loves his money more.

We sometimes see a fool possessed of talent, but never of judgement.

A cynic is a man who knows the price of everything, and the value of nothing.

Envy is usually the mother of gossip.

There isn't a man alive who is as good as he knows he ought to be.

People generally have too many opinions and not enough convictions.

For many, the idea of poverty is a black and white television.

One great thing about our form of government is that everybody gets something out of it, even if it's only free income tax forms.

"What time do you get up in the summer?"

"As soon as the first ray of sun shines through my window."

"Isn't that rather early?"

"No. My room faces west."

If it's true that we're approaching a moneyless society, some of us are ahead of our time.

Money not only changes hands - it changes people.

One sure way for you to gain followers to your cause is to start winning.

What lies behind us and what lies before us are tiny matters compared to what lies within us.

An angry man is seldom reasonable; a reasonable man is seldom angry.

Faith in mankind will be a reality when they stop hauling money in armored cars.

Keep your ideals high enough to inspire you, and low enough to encourage you.

Don't be a carbon copy of something. Make your own impression.

If a person is standing with one foot in a bucket of ice and the other foot in a fire, you could say - at least statistically - that on the average the person is very comfortable.

The happiest people are those who are too busy to notice whether they are happy or not.

Keep your head and your heart going in the right direction and you'll not have to worry about your feet.
